

Threat Assessment and Crisis Prevention

August 17, 2016

9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. (CDT)

Workshop #130-16

GRREC Office & Training Facility • 230 Technology Way • Bowling Green

The Green River Regional Educational Cooperative Special Education Division is pleased to present Threat Assessment and Crisis Prevention training.

About the Training

Participants will be engaged in and provided with the most recent information regarding best practices in the area of threat assessment and risk assessment. Some information will also be provided regarding effective crisis prevention. Common risk factors and protective factors will be discussed as well. Participants will be provided a detailed protocol and current threat assessment practice from a local school system. Hands-on learning and roleplay will be included.

Learning Targets

- Participants will become familiar with risk factors, warning signs and protective/resiliency factors of those who may pose a risk to harm themselves/others.
- Participants will learn about an evidenced based threat assessment process and best practice for crisis preparedness.

About the Presenter

Mr. Adam Liechty has over a decade of experience in public education as a school psychologist and district administrator. He earned his Bachelor of Arts, Master of Science, and Specialist in School Psychology from Winthrop University in Rock Hill, SC. Later he completed the coursework for Director of Special Education at Eastern Kentucky University. Particular areas of interest for Mr. Liechty include assessment, low incidence disabilities, data collection and monitoring, multi-tiered systems of support, crisis preparedness and response, and comprehensive school psychology services (e.g., counseling and behavior support). Mr. Liechty currently serves the Kentucky Association for Psychology in the Schools (KAPS) as an executive council member, the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP) as a member of the Distance Education Task Force, and conducts workshops to support social/emotional wellbeing, including threat assessment. He has worked extensively to train each mental health professional in Campbell County Schools and for the past two years has partnered with Northern Kentucky University to instruct emerging school counselors on evidence-based threat assessment approach and protocol.
